the first expose in English about the Romanian and Transnistrian tragedy and the post-war cover-up. Over 500,000 Jews were killed in the Romanian Holocaust and their story has been one of obscurity in the history of World War II. This book fills a major historical gap in Holocaust studies. The historical section of this book is based on research done by Jean Ancel and Dora Litani, pioneers in the history of the Romanian Holocaust. Includes survivors' personal testimonies which demonstrate the annihilation, suffering, and unspeakably traumatic experiences in Romania and Transnistria, but also allows us to witness their courage, faith, and hope for the future. This book contains new revelations from recently released Soviet documents and eyewitness testimonies.
